

Taylor Memorial Hospital: Presbyterian Mission, Paotinfu, China (Classic Reprint)

By Unknown Author

Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Taylor Memorial Hospital: Presbyterian Mission, Paotinfu, China Medical work was begun under the American Presbyterian Mission at Paotingfu about the first of January 1894, by Dr. George Yardly Taylor, in the rear of the street chapel on the north street. It was begun as a dispensary which was held every afternoon. A little later, some rooms were fitted up here for inpatients. In the Spring of 1895, when Dr, Taylor went to America on a furlough, Dr. B. C. Atterbury came and took up the medical work. Dr. Atterbury, at his own expense, built a dispensary with a large waiting room which was used also as the Compound Chapel. He also built ten hospital rooms for patients. This was all on the old compound, one mile north of the city. When Dr. Taylor returned from furlough, he had charge of the hospital work and held dispensary clinics on alternate days at the compound and in the city. His work grew rapidly and his clinics were largely attended, having as many as one hundred and fifty...

READ ONLINE

[6.39 MB]

Reviews

Absolutely essential go through book. It can be rally fascinating throug studying period of time. You wont truly feel monotony at at any time of your respective time (that's what catalogues are for concerning in the event you question me).

-- Roberto Leannon

This sort of publication is everything and made me seeking forward and much more. Better then never, though i am quite late in start reading this one. I am easily could possibly get a delight of reading through a created pdf.

-- Quinton Balistreri