Her arms were clasped upon her breast, and on her brow was bound, One single gem that flung afar resplendent radiance round; An emblem of herself it seemed, so peerless and so high, No star e er wore a light more fair--set in the midnight sky. I loved her with the eagerness of my secluded youth, I loved her till my soul became full of impassioned truth; Till my heart was like a quivering lyre, that echoed but her name, And a burning life lit up my brain, like clear and lambent flame. Our vows were plighted even then, ere the slow steps...
